ABOUT

Curious. Deep thinking. Versatile. A lifelong learner. I'm no ordinary tech guy. I come from a social sciences and media background which empowers me with new visions.

I like throwing myself out of the comfort zone. Here's my story.

NinjaMock

As a student I've been fascinated by social sciences and foreignlanguages. I made a bachelor in political science and then, after obtaining DAAD scholarship headed to Germany to get MA and M.Sc. in European Studies, a curriculum that encompassed EU law and economics.

Afterwards I plunged into corporate life instead of pursuing academic career to make the most out of my other passion - writing. I went through a couple of copywriter jobs to find myself in media business. I spent 5 happy years at Russia beyond the Headlines, an international project of Russian daily newspaper Rossiyskaya gazeta in the role of web and multimedia editor and stuff writer creating sports, travel as well as arts and living stories, Q&As, illustrated listicles, multimedia timelines, longreads, quizzes, interactive infographics, video features and culinary video tutorials.

It was media where I got the taste of web technologies. Working closely with content management and multimedia tools boosted my desire to move to front-end development. I really wanted to configure it all myself without any mediators. Now my best friends are HTML, CSS and JavaScript - a perfect toolbox for creating beautiful websites and user interfaces.

SKILLS

Coding

I produce reliable, adaptable and maintainable client-side script using JavaScript and corresponding frameworks (Angular JS, jQuery) according to the modern standards and best practices for web development.

I have a confident command of tools for creating asynchronous web applications (AJAX, JSON), build tools and tusk runners (NPM, Gulp) as well as source control tools (Git).

I am proficient with cross platform debugging for browsers and mobile devices, have a solid understanding of MVC architecture and experience with third party APIs.

Language Skills

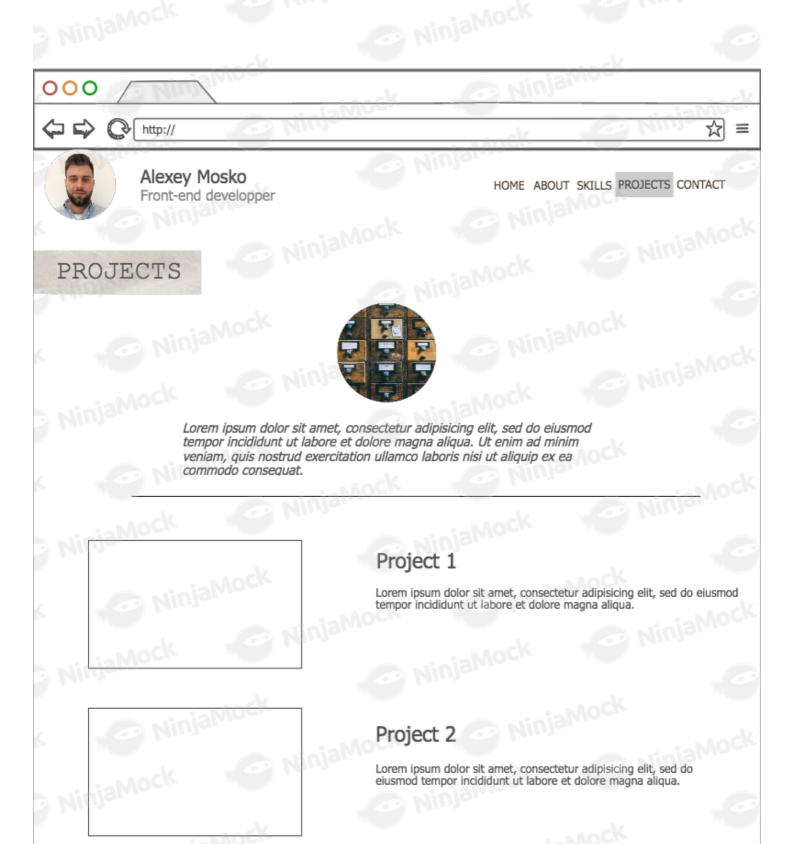

My mother tongue is Russian. I'm proficient in both written and spoken English and German, be it a purely tech conversation or business negotiations. I can also read documentation in French.

Soft Skills

Being an all-rounded personality, I understand that it's not everything about the code. Good communication is key for a successful project and I make my best to deliver clear messages to everyone in the team including non-tech partners.

I am good at multitasking and prepared to handle deadline pressure. I am flexible, quick to adapt to new environments and always eager to extend my technological stack.
